

WEEK TWO

LUKE 5:1-7

Jesus fills Peter's nets with so many fish that they begin to break and the boat begins to sink.

WEEK TWO

LUKE 5:1-7

Jesus fills Peter's nets with so many fish that they begin to break and the boat begins to sink.

REMEMBER THIS:

"With God all things are possible."

MATTHEW 19:26, NIV

SAY THIS:

Who can do anything? JESUS CAN DO ANYTHING.

DO THIS:

As you drive, point out objects and ask your child what those objects can do. Ex: "There's a traffic light. What can they do? (Tell us to stop and go.) There's a big truck. What can it do? (Carry lots of stuff.)" End saying, "Hey, who can do ANYTHING? Jesus can do anything!"

BASIC TRUTH:

JESUS WANTS TO BE MY FRIEND FOREVER.

REMEMBER THIS:

"With God all things are possible."

MATTHEW 19:26, NIV

SAY THIS:

Who can do anything? JESUS CAN DO ANYTHING.

DO THIS:

As you drive, point out objects and ask your child what those objects can do. Ex: "There's a traffic light. What can they do? (Tell us to stop and go.) There's a big truck. What can it do? (Carry lots of stuff.)" End saying, "Hey, who can do ANYTHING? Jesus can do anything!"

BASIC TRUTH:

JESUS WANTS TO BE MY FRIEND FOREVER.

LITTLE IS THE NEW BIG

By Jon Acuff

LITTLE IS THE NEW BIG

By Jon Acuff

The funny thing about having big fun with your kids is that it doesn't take a big moment.

We had big fun because he did something little.

Have you ever noticed that? The times you planned something expensive and complicated with your kids, they barely blinked an eye. The time you washed the car in your driveway and threw sponges at each other they talked about forever.

In your pursuit to have fun with your kids, don't put big pressure on yourselves. Certainly there are moments that call for elaborate and detailed adventures, but little moments matter too.

Why does that happen?

A little trip to a bakery before school, a little water balloon fight, a little hand in the Jello, those are the fun kind of little moments that add up to big memories.

I think it's the "cardboard box" effect. Every parent has had one of those moments when your child ignores the present you got them and instead goes gaga for the box it comes in. "No," you think to yourself, "that's just a cardboard box. The actual toy lights up and has laser beam sounds and is amazing." But your toy protests go ignored as they chew on their new favorite object on the planet.

The cardboard box effect continues as they get older and starts to apply to experiences, not just presents. I have forgotten week long vacations as a child but still remember the night my dad put his hand in the Jello at dinner. My brothers and I lost our minds as he scooped out a big red handful of dessert as if that was the most normal thing in the world.

The funny thing about having big fun with your kids is that it doesn't take a big moment.

We had big fun because he did something little.

Have you ever noticed that? The times you planned something expensive and complicated with your kids, they barely blinked an eye. The time you washed the car in your driveway and threw sponges at each other they talked about forever.

In your pursuit to have fun with your kids, don't put big pressure on yourselves. Certainly there are moments that call for elaborate and detailed adventures, but little moments matter too.

Why does that happen?

A little trip to a bakery before school, a little water balloon fight, a little hand in the Jello, those are the fun kind of little moments that add up to big memories.

I think it's the "cardboard box" effect. Every parent has had one of those moments when your child ignores the present you got them and instead goes gaga for the box it comes in. "No," you think to yourself, "that's just a cardboard box. The actual toy lights up and has laser beam sounds and is amazing." But your toy protests go ignored as they chew on their new favorite object on the planet.

The cardboard box effect continues as they get older and starts to apply to experiences, not just presents. I have forgotten week long vacations as a child but still remember the night my dad put his hand in the Jello at dinner. My brothers and I lost our minds as he scooped out a big red handful of dessert as if that was the most normal thing in the world.

For more blog posts and parenting resources, visit: ParentCue.org

For more blog posts and parenting resources, visit: ParentCue.org